"I suppose it didn't mean anything to you, Miss Fenway, that night," he. was telling her; "you just did your; duty by a strange soldier, but to me it was handing me back my faith in human nature. I'd said all the time since we landed, nobody cared excepting those who really belonged to you, don't you know, and I hadn't a soul. I don't see how you'll ever get rid of

She was pouring his coffee, and met his eyes for one swift second as their hands touched in passing cups, but the undercurrent of appeal in his words sent the color to her face delicately. Maria was singing gospel hymns out in the buttery and Cheer Up, the canary overhead, was trying wildly to keep up with her. The sunlight poured through the south windows on rows of flowering plants and the pink and white china.

"It will be very lonely without you," she said, softly. "You've made me feel as if I had been given the opportunity to realize a little of what service meant in having you here."

"And nothing more," he urged. "Would you just as soon have taken in one of the others instead of me? I've liked to think that right from the first time we looked at each other you meant to ask me."

His hands had closed over hers and Katherine felt a relaxing of all the old prejudices as she looked at him

"Oh, dear Bob. I've grown accustomed to you here, and I don't know whether I want you to go away or not. It's just like taking the camel in your tent, isn't it? Marie said the first day she saw your pipe on the mantel, you'd stay right along and now I'd miss it terribly."

Bob took out his record card which the doctor had filled out daily. He pointed to one line on it, "Quartered indefinitely," it said.

"Can I stay?" he asked. Maria's singing came nearer along the hall, and Katherine merely laid her finger on her lips and nodded assent.

Triumphs of Youth.

History is full of what youth can do. David was a mere stripling with rosy cheeks when he slew the great giant. Alexander was scarcely more than a boy when he crossed the Hellespont and fought his way to almost universal empire. Newton was only twenty-three when he made discoveries that have revolutionized science. Athanasius was a young man when he became the leading advocate of the Doctrine of the Divinity of Christ at the great council of Nice. Luther was only twenty-four when he led in the great attacks of the German reformation. His years were no barrier to vision, for he saw the need of educational freedom which has resulted in the modern public school. So the list might be enlarged adding an increasing emphasis on the powers of youth.

Early Formal Gardening.

In the sixteenth century, formal gardening was carried to a very high pitch. In England, many fine new country houses were being built on a scale unknown before, and gardens, fit to act as their setting, were being laid out round them. The importance of the place which both domestic architecture and gardening, or rather the designing and laying out of gardens, occupied in men's thoughts is shown by the fact that such a man as Lord Bacon wrote an essay on both subjects. Nor was his essay by any means an isolated instance. A century or so later, John Evelyn devoted much attention to and wrote a great deal on the same subject, and there are a host of lesser writers on gardens, such as Gervase Markham and some of his friends.

The art of skating was invented by the Dutch, and was popular in Holland centuries before it spread to England and France. The first blade-skates used in England were introduced from Holland about 1660, and are first mentioned in a diary bearing this date,

History of Skating.

January 20, 1661. Prior to the use of skates by the Dutch, a sort of skate made of the bones of animals was used by the northern peoples, dating back to prehistoric times. Several of these primitive bone-skates have been found in the marshy fields near London, and are preserved in the British museum. The period when skating, as it is not known to historians.

Good Advice.

The man who doesn't worry when he ought to is as bad as the one who worries when he shouldn't. Worrying is bad for the health, but probably not as bad as letting things drift. In case of rain, run for an umbrella. Instead of saying "Don't Worry" the best advice to give a man in trouble is "Get Busy."-Thrift Magazine.

Most Valuable Garnets.

The oriental garnets are the most valuable and beautiful. They come principally from Pegu; and the town of Sirian having formerly been the chief mart for them, they are hence by corruption known among lapidaries by the appellation of Sirian-garnets. They appear to be the carbuncle of the ancients; their color is crimson, verging into a very red violet; they are transparent, and have a conchoidal fracture.

BOY BLUE

When Jerry Stanton was a very little fellow he had been called "Little Boy Blue" by his fond parents. Now the term as applied to him had a bigger and broader meaning, for the only son of the proud Mr. Stanton was a sailor boy in blue.

Indeed, Jerry was a lad to be proud of, one who would be able to do his bit for Uncle Sam. But he had one grievous fault which threatened to be his downfall, Jerry was conceited, very, very conceited. Why, it did not seem to surprise him in the least when he learned that the sweetest little girl in the whole wide world had fallen in love with him. However, the entire blame should not be placed on Jerry's shoulders. He was doubtless the spoiled pet of an over-indulgent mother.

Now, to be sure, Louise Gray was deeply in love with the handsome Stanton boy, but she knew he thought too much of himself, and it troubled her. Time and again she would pucker up her pretty lips, frown and try to think of some plan to make her lover see himself as others saw him.

One warm and lovely summer evening the sailor had come bounding up the steps of the Gray homestead. He rang the bell, knocked at the door and called "her" name. Useless! No sound reached his ear, and all was darkness within. Slowly he retraced his steps and began to walk around the house. As he reached the side porch he heard voices, and yes, he recognized his sweetheart's ringing laughter. With angry steps and beating heart he drew nearer. His attempt to play eavesdropper was rewarded when these words reached his ears, "Tom, you're just a dear and I love you." These few words, without any doubt, gave Boy Blue the "blues." Jerry gave one last hopeless glance at the perch above him and then made his way toward the pond. He thought he would jump in, but plans for re-Prices at which retailers sell im- sharply and start for home. Then the lovers came face to face and both seemed bewildered. Jerry rubbed his head and Louise picked up the abused cat. At last Jerry was humbled. He blurted out something about being a fool, and asked Louise to please forgive him. By the mischievous twinkle in her eyes and the roguish smile on her lips, she told him all was well again.

And now the deserted kitten demanded attention. This time Jerry took him, and as he did so he tauntingly quoted, "Tom, you're a dear and I love you.' *********

Queer Fashions of Other Days. Writing of the period preceding and following the American Revolutionary war, Watson, in his quaint Annals, has much to say concerning the fashhas much to say concerning the fashions and apparel of that time. He particularly deplores the fact that the fashions change so rapidly, and, as an instance of this, he writes: "In the year 1817, I bought in the East Indies a second-hand vest sold by its owner because it was out of fashion; I have it yet, and it is nearly as good as new, although it has been in and out of fashion five times respectively since 1

Replica of Monument Erected in Memory of Three Americans Who Fell at Bethelmont Is Sent to Washington.

Washington.-The first three American soldiers to die in battle on French soil fell in the village of Bethelmont, about twelve miles east of Nancy. The population of this region decided to erect a monument commemorating their sacrifice, and a replica of this proposed monument was sent to President Wilson by Ambassador Sharp at Paris a few months ago at the request of those in charge of the proj-Originally it was the intention to hold the ceremony of dedication in the very village of Bethelmont, where the three young heroes had given their lives for freedom, but the community was situated so near the firing line that the ceremony had to be held at Nancy. Ambassador Sharp has sent to the state department a graphic report on the subject. A large crowd of distinguished people were present

M. Mirman, in his address before a huge assembly at Nancy, emphasized the fact that the three young heroes in whose honor the monument had been erected were not, indeed, the first Americans whose blood had tinged the battlefields of France. Young men from the United States, impatient to fight, had enrolled voluntarily in the French and English armies and already in 1916 their number exceeded 20,000.

For Big Mileage

ONLY A SPEEDOMETER CAN TELL TIRE QUALITY

We can't explain why Gordon Tires are making such remarkable records. It's a matter of not trying to make too many tires, a bit of genius in handling of rubber, getting formulae right and keeping them right, watching details and trying hard all the time.

Such things can't be fully explained but a speedometer can prove them. Gordon Tires are averaging well over 10,000 miles. They are guaranteed for 5,000 miles (6,000 on smaller sizes.) Less than 1 per cent. of Gordons are ever offered for readjustment.

MACK NEBLETT IS CHAIRMAN

With Claud Clark, George Crenshaw

And Ira Smith To Help.

The organization for the Salvation Army Drive was effected Wednesday afternoon, when Mrl I. G. Sobel, of Erie, Pa., met a number of business men brought together by Envoy Val-

G. W. Crenshaw presided and with characteristic Hopknsville vim the meeting quickly made an organization with J. M. Neblett, chairman. C. R. Clark, vice-chairman, George W. Crenshaw, secretary and Ira L Smith, Treasurer.

The officers were empowered to select their own assistants and appoint the various sub-committees.

The county's quota was announced as $5,300.

Mr. Sobel was told by Chairman Neblett that he need give himself no concern about the result, as sie quota would be raised.

The campaign was of necessity postponed, as no printed matter had been sent. The new date is from June 23 to 30, but probably only one day will be needed, which will be announced later.

Mr. Neblett will no doubt largely use the organizations employed in the various precincts in the Liberty

Died Tuesday Night After Taking

Fatal Draught of Carbolic

Mrs. Rosa Sabel Myers, the wife of H. Myers, the junk dealer at 8th and Water streets, died Tuesday family is of the opinion that she mistook the drug for a bottle of medicine as her health was poor. The error was quickly discovered and physicians hastily summoned, but no relief could be afforded and she died in a short while.

Mrs. Myers was a sister of the Sabel Bros., merchants at Ninth and Virginia, and is survived by her husband and two small children. The and came here two years ago from daughter of Isaac Sabel of 313 Oak street, who took poison at her home in Hopkinsville, Ky., was brought here yesterday. Funeral services were conducted at 2 o'clock in the afternoon at the Oak Street address. Burial followed in a cemetery in Outer First Avenue.

"The report of the coroner of Christian County, Ky., filed with the local board of health, recites that Mrs Meyer committed suicide. It is said she had been ill of influenza which deranged her mind.

"A statement was given out last night at the Sabel home that she had taken the poison through mis take. The coroner's verdict will be investigated, it was stated, and a change in the cause asked for."
